*First We Are
Pushed, Later Lured
Into DISCOVERY...*

For awhile we are alone in a crowd.

We come alone ...

Soon we find our friends.

Often we discover knowledge here.

We seek social discovery every weekend.

Weatherspoon Art Gallery provides us with special cultural discovery.

Finally we perceive that self-realization is our true individual discovery.

*The Discovery
of
Being Alone*

Alone in a world of our own.

It's to the left around the corner . . .

First, we find ourselves alone . . . in a strange community in a bare room, with a feeling of insecurity. We ask ourselves, "Why am I here?" We ponder this question as we watch the others arrive. Why do we feel alone with all these people so near? Turning around, we see another coming into the room; she is alone also. This is what we have in common . . . this discovery of loneliness.

Bare necessities?

Two's company; three's a crowd!

Hello, my name is . . .

Not there, Dad, over here a little.

No, I want the top bunk.

That day when we first arrive is filled with activity. Our parents and boyfriends help for a while in getting us acquainted with our surroundings. We decorate the room, learn how to work our mailbox, and get money for various dues. In a while our family leaves—they are alone as we are.

Let's see now—Oh, I'll never get my mail.

But Mom, there are dorm dues, class dues, and we need curtains.

Some things are difficult to leave.

You always have to wait

I must write him a letter

How I wish I were home!

Will I ever know all of these people?

When our family finally leaves, we become involved in the rush of orientation. We meet so many people that names and faces become confused. Junior Assistants are a big help during these days—giving us numerous instructions and directions. Our Junior House President tries to make us feel a part of our new surroundings, yet still the feeling of loneliness overwhelms us.

No, in the handbook it says . . .

Registration is a time of frustration

I hope I have them all!

When registration day finally arrives, we hurry over to Rosenthal Gym. We are aghast at the mob we see and the long lines. Some are still here who arrived early this morning. After registering we hurry over to the bookstore. Again we are confused, frustrated, and alone.

The year is beginning. Will I get through it?

Let's see, now what is it for History 101.

I forgot to sign out!

Loading up the cattle and heading for auction.

Funny how Cokes at Carolina have a better taste!

The magic of Carolina.

Even at "The Hill" there is loneliness.

Toward the end of orientation we go to Chapel Hill for a mixer. Many of the girls go, and it is an exciting time. The UNC-CH boys meet us at the bus, and together we attend dorm receptions and combo parties. Yet, here again we sometimes feel alone.

DISCOVERY EN MASSE

Slater scores again!

How's this for a mob?

As the first days fade into weeks, we realize even more that the University is centered in people. In every activity of the campus there are myriads of people who seem to know where they are going and why. Feeling insignificant and apart from this mass, we must learn how to live in the community. Patience and consideration, tactfulness, and self-discipline must be developed as guides to daily living. Discovery en masse hits us from the beginning, but only gradually do we become accustomed to our new life.

The mechanical monsters of progress.

Just checking out the situation . . .

No, it can't be candid camera!

And the classes get larger and larger.

Settling down into the campus pattern of living is not an easy task. We must reach out and grasp our identity in the masses around us. New doors are constantly opening and revealing opportunities never before imagined. We explore with others the fields of knowledge spread out on every side. Each day apprehensions diminish and self-confidence grows as we become familiar with our new surroundings.

Always the traffic problem.

"Yes, I am happy to be back with MY girls—and boys!"

Anyone care for a slightly used picture?

The long awaited day arrives!

Keep up the good work, Rats!

Over 3,000 copies to deliver!

Deck the halls . . .

The camels are coming!

Special events, closely associated with each class provide diversions from our day to day campus life. Rat Day, Ring Day, offer more than respite from routine; in their own small way they help to maintain the unity of each class and, in turn, the solidarity of the University.

And the mass gathers in Aycock

As is obvious, our environment necessitates that we be thrown together quite often throughout the year. House meetings find us in various cramped positions though with the opening of the sun court in the spring, we stretch relaxingly. During the year we gather together in an orderly manner in Aycock en masse.

... just one more announcement.

What's this—UNC-G Riviera?

I've only been working two years on this sweater.

SNEA will meet on ...

Who can study at house meetings?

*The Discovery
of the Small Group*

"I took the road less traveled by, and that has made all the difference."

What is life without a roommate?

Gradually we discover that life at the University cannot be lived alone. Forgetting ourselves, we look about and find others who are also seeking to become a part, to belong. Just a smile and a friendly "hello" transform these strange faces into friends who can share our happiness and heartaches as well as our responsibilities and tasks. Time binds friendship strong, as we begin our circle that never ends.

And what are little girls made of?

Friends were made to share secrets.

Where's the most popular man on campus?

As we begin to feel more at home on campus, we find that it is easy to become a part of many small groups. Getting to know roommates, as well as neighbors, is a new and interesting experience. Classes provide endless opportunities to make new friends with interests and ideas similar to our own, and studying and working with them brings a closeness that is lasting. Whether relaxing in the Soda Shop or waiting in line at the dining hall, the University always has a place for friends.

But what's a roommate to do?

Great, they're just my size!

Thank goodness for lab breaks!

All you've gotta do is laugh it off.

Wanna make a bet?

Okay, you win!

A coke, a smoke, and U N C L E!

That should teach you not to bend your knees!

I know you want to show me your new serve, but now?

Just having someone to talk to means a lot.

The times we enjoy most are those occasions when we can relax and have fun together in our spare time. Parties and bull sessions in the dorm or lounges are just a part of our discovery in small groups. We find that laughing together goes with living together. Sports and recreation are also popular activities. Tennis, golf, and swimming can always be fun with a friend.

Time out to read the mail

Somebody has been studying hard!

A week just would not be complete for some of us without a game of bridge that somehow manages to last until we are too sleepy to keep the score. Writing letters home and to friends always keeps us busy, and sharing all the news is the only way to end a day.

Planning for week-ends is exciting as we wait with eager anticipation for the big day to arrive. Time seems to fly by much faster if there is something special to look forward to. We discover that having someone to help us make plans is more fun than making them alone. Double-dating and being with a group gives us a chance to meet more people.

Any one going my way?

What are you looking so smug about?

Small groups are ideal for folk singing, Christmas caroling, or for enjoying almost any type of music. We all have to gather around to hear the latest album or to hum along with our neighbors who play a guitar.

We all enjoy singing folk songs together

Who wins the Colgate contest?

You meet the nicest people in the laundry room.

Sing it again.

Really, it will turn out all right!

Even our tasks seem lighter if we find friends who are encouraging and work with us. Helping others gives a reward that is lasting, for it is only by giving of ourselves that we become a part—we discover belonging.

The Academic Directory

A place to concentrate on reading all those chapters before class tomorrow.

The lab is a complex test-tube world—full of wonders for some, incomprehensible for others.

Academic discovery is a part of our lives here at UNC-G that continues to grow and develop throughout our college years. The long, sometimes weary hours spent in lab, occasionally bring a spark of understanding and knowledge. Pages and pages of notes are written, digested, and organized—some to be parroted back and forgotten, but others to be remembered—to arouse a spark of curiosity and a desire to learn more.

Sometimes it takes a lot of patient explanation to comprehend math.

Sometimes the work seems endless.

"To sleep perhaps to dream."

Notes—the essence of a lecture means little if not injected with the personality and enthusiasm of the professor

"Where is that extra door that is supposed to solve our traffic problem?"

"But my schedule says ..."

The world of McIver becomes many things to us. Perhaps we enter for an hour of frantic note-taking, a history mid-term, or a session in the language lab. Frequently we enter only to count minutes until we leave. Occasionally, after fighting traffic jams, we enter to discover there is something left to learn.

Dr. Wright shows an example of Asian art to his class.

Endless days of classes blur into weeks.

New ideas captivate our interest and make us eager to know more.

As the hour of class passes, a professor sees various spans of attention in his students. Some listen with undivided attention, others write until their hands sting; still others hardly know what happens. In the final analysis, the academic discovery is made—though with varying intensities.

A measure of thoughtfulness may provide this answer

He said the same thing Tuesday.

I sure hope she doesn't mind my hair being rolled

Notes, notes, and more notes . . .

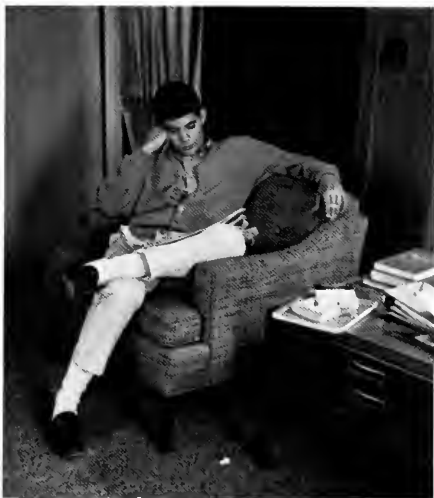

Tenseness mounts as we try to recall elusive details.

It might have been weeks before we set foot inside the library, but now we could hardly do without it.

The acquisition of knowledge does not come easily. Pressure builds up before exams, and often what we should know is not there when we need it. Long hours of study are more than worthwhile when we have that feeling of achievement, knowing we have done well.

A moment to relax and catch up with the news.

I wish I hadn't gone out last night

I know he is in here!

Helpful lab assistants give aid to students.

A sore spot is removed from the campus.

We are fascinated with the progress on the new Fine Arts Building.

We laugh now . . . intensive thought of what we learned comes later.

The primary aim of this University is to provide us, the students, an atmosphere in which we can learn of the great transitions in self which the discovery of academic subjects can accumulate. Academic Discovery comes piecemeal— But each new taste makes us eager to have more—and so we continue our search—both in and out of the classroom, in books and in nature, seeking what we do not know.

SOCIAL DISCOVERY

I don't think I'll ever make it to Strong to catch my ride.

When these girls leave, they pack like it's for a month instead of two days.

We cannot study all the time and on the weekends one may discover our social life shaping itself into many forms. Going home or visiting a neighboring college on the weekends is a familiar sight on our campus. We like to get away now and then to relax and rest from the routine grind.

Too bad a big weekend always calls for a big check.

Hope I'm not overdrawn ...

How fast can you go from zero to sixty?

There's nothing like a sister class party to revive your spirits.

Who says you can get away from it all at the Soda Shop?

The Tuesday Tea makes the difference between a 24" and a 26" waistline.

Here on the campus many of our traditions such as the Sister Class get-togethers enable us to meet new people and widen our range of friendships. Those students and professors who brave the obstical course around Elliott Hall gather in the Soda Shop between classes to discuss the latest news, and attend the delightful Tuesday Teas held in Cone Ballroom.

The children of the faculty share with us the spirit of old Saint Nick.

A momentary escape from the pressure.

Someone's a lucky guy.

That final touch!

Flowers for that special someone.

The Junior Ring Dance which was held in the fall of the year is a new addition to the several formal and semiformal dances held on campus. Among these are the Christmas Formal and the Valentine Dinner Dance. Formal dress offers a refreshing change from our usual weekday appearance and these occasions always hold many wonderful remembrances for all.

A beginning of tradition—the Junior Ring Dance.

Just as enjoyable and far more frequent are our weekend combo and record dances which have a large and popular following. Nora Wilson, president of Elliott Hall, works hard to provide the students with top-notch entertainment.

Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs along with the Shirelles were part of a big weekend held in the fall, which brought many students and their dates to Cone Ballroom to dance the evening away and to enjoy hearing the Zodiacs and Shirelles sing.

And you're campused?!

We all have to conform!

The controversial pierced ear proved very popular on our campus

The odds and ends of our social life—fads, familiar gathering places, folk music, the Cinema Theater where James Bond movies run three months, and the beautiful strains of a Sound of Music album which is always being played somewhere, are very much a part of us.

Hey, look! There's my roommate at the other end of that long line . . .

Now wait til ya hear the punch line!

The fraternity pin—symbol of the ultimate in college social life.

Our college remembrances include the places we went and the social circles of which we were a part. Many of us made lasting friendships and met 'THE boy. As a result, we discovered our truer, better selves and became increasingly more a part of what is called college life.

Sophomores greet freshmen on Acquaintance Day

The sister class spirit is most alive on Class Day.

Social life on the campus is infiltrated with sister class activities. From the efforts of the sophomores, a trend perhaps began with the advent of Acquaintance Day. Perhaps for the final time, the year will terminate with a traditional retreat to the hills to pick flowers for the custom-steeped Daisy Chain.

CULTURAL DISCOVERY

Miss Hood seems to be enjoying her conversation with three NRT members

Students, faculty, and the public as well, benefit from the numerous cultural events presented in Aycock Auditorium.

Customarily we who attend a university expect to find within its walls another discovery—cultural. At UNC-G those of us who desire to make this discovery have ample opportunity to do so. Through the facilities of Aycock, Elliott Hall, and numerous organizations, event after event is presented to attract each of our individual tastes. We can broaden our knowledge of music, of dance, of art, of the theater as we choose, for culture is here to be discovered.

The UNC-G Library provides an array of paintings for its students' enjoyment.

Springtime was even more enchanting as Ted Brown entertained a captive audience.

A quiet moment—and communion . . .

The UNC-G Theater has again rendered both successful and entertaining productions. During the fall, Dr. Arthur Dixon of the English Department portrayed the immortal Prospero from Shakespeare's The Tempest. He shared billing with Emmylou Harris as Miranda and Sandra Hopper as the magical Ariel. For L'il Abner, the cast performed here and then took this production on a worldwide USO tour. The final production, Hotel Universe, was presented in May.

"The very minute bids thee open thine ear . . ."

At last, after long hours of rehearsal, The Tempest has its opening night.

The National Repertory Theatre returned to the UNC-G campus before beginning its coast-to-coast tour which will end on Broadway in the spring. This "in-residence" period provides a unique educational opportunity for students to learn from attending, witnessing, and assisting in the technical development behind the scenes. An outstanding company of stars, directors, designers and technicians helped to make the two comedies, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" and "The Rivals," a success.

Each year students look forward to the Harriet Elliott Lecture Series. Lecturers chosen by the Social Science Forum are prominent men and women in the social studies field. Often they are political leaders and always they have relevant lectures for their listeners. Various classes and smaller discussion groups are visited by the speaker and accessible to students who desire to delve deeper into the general topic of the Series.

Max Lerner was the visiting speaker for the 1966 Social Science Forum. A Russian by birth, Mr. Lerner is both a distinguished author and lecturer. He received his A.B. at Yale and also holds an M.A. and a Ph.D. degree. From 1936-38, Mr. Lerner was editor of the Nation. He taught at Sarah Lawrence College and at Harvard. His books include Ideas Are Weapons, America As A Civilization, and The Age of Overkill.

Two of the productions via Elliott Hall were the Tahitian dancers and the return performance of the Alba-Reyes Spanish dancers.

The Arts Forum was held in the Spring with Dr. X. J. Kennedy, Eudora Weltz, and Stanley Kunitz attending. Dr. Kennedy is a poet in his own right and a former member of the UNC-G English Department.

The debating society, now in its second year, gains momentum and skill in tournament debating.

INDIVIDUAL DISCOVERY

Faraway places . . .

"Dear Mom, remember the curtains that needed hemming?"

A flurry of exams, term papers, and dates—then the college years draw to a close, leaving an individual who, in brief but vivid moments, has come to know the joy that is a part of outstanding achievement, the fulfillment that is a part of the giving of oneself to others, and, above all, the satisfaction that is a part of standing for the first time, independent.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR MARSHALS

Representing our college community at most of its functions are these marshals, who can be identified by their white dresses and sashes, their attractive appearances, and helpful assistance. These girls, who come from the junior and senior classes, are voted on by their respective classes in the spring of each year. A greater honor is that of chief marshal, for she is elected by the entire student body in the first SGA elections.

Even in this world of the University, where the new and strange replace all that is old and familiar, there is always a friendly smile, a sympathetic ear, a willingness to explain and encourage, and an eagerness to share the knowledge gained from long years of study.

ADMINISTRATION

The 74th session of the University opened with the announcement of the official appointments of Miss Sayde Dunn and Mrs. Margery Irby as Dean of Women and Dean of Admissions respectively. In keeping with the expanding nature of the University, twenty-six new faculty members were appointed. With the return of Chancellor Singletary, Dr. James Ferguson, Acting Chancellor, resumed his previous position as Dean of the Graduate School. In the fourteen months he served as chancellor, the problems arising because of the nature of this interim period were at "a minimum" according to Dr. Ferguson, for he had the cooperation of both students and faculty.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Dr. John Kennedy, Head of Graduate School

The departments offering graduate work at the University are the following: Home Economics which offers a doctorate in Child Development; Art, Business Education, English, Physical Education, Education, History, Music, Biology, Psychology, and the Romance Languages. Presently work is being done in other departments so that master and doctorate degrees may be offered. The present enrollment of the Graduate School here is greater than seven hundred with more students in the summer session than in the regular terms. The most important activity of the Graduate School is to prepare teachers for the community colleges which abound all over the state of North Carolina.

SPECIAL STUDIES

The three special study areas which the University offers are the Honors Program, the International Studies Program, and the Junior Year Abroad Program. The Honors Program which was established in 1962 by Chancellor Singletary under a Ford Foundation grant is for the gifted student. The program begins in the freshman year and continues through the senior year. Roughly a fourth of the course of study of the student in honors is composed of special sections and seminars in which only the honors students participate. This policy gives the gifted student the opportunity for growth provided by more demanding course work and more vigorous intellectual competition than is possible in the more conventional curriculum. The International Studies Program is offered to juniors and seniors with a 2.7 grade average. It is directed primarily to students in the various social science and foreign language departments and is designed for those interested in acquiring an understanding of world affairs. The Junior Year Abroad is offered to any interested and qualified sophomore who has sufficient foreign language training. If the work abroad is satisfactory, the student will receive 30 semester hours credit for his year of work. Each of these programs is a step forward in providing for individual interests in the University Curriculum.

ENGLISH

With the expansion of the graduate program and the addition of new instructors, the English Department has expanded to meet the needs of a growing University. A wide choice of courses are open to students and majors may concentrate in English literature, America literature, or writing. Visiting poets and authors come each year to participate in English Club programs, the Poetry Circuit and the Literary Festival, and the English faculty are also given opportunities to share their writing with the campus.

GERMAN AND RUSSIAN

In the three years that the German major has been offered, one outstanding senior each year has received a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Vienna. Opportunities to travel and study abroad are offered to all majors, and many participate in the Junior Year Abroad or the summer work program in Germany. Participating in the Fulbright exchange professor program this year, the department is honored to have Mr. Kade here from Germany. Dr. Anne Baecker, department head, this year published an Intermediate German Reader, an anthology of post war German literature.

Language students work in lab, where they can hear the results of their endeavors.

ROMANCE LANGUAGES

The Romance Language Department offers courses in Spanish, French, and Italian, with graduate courses in French initiated this year. The language laboratory, a familiar sight for many students, is used extensively by the beginning and advanced conversation classes. Movies in the three languages are offered throughout the year, and the French and Spanish Clubs sponsor language tables in the dining halls where the language can be developed through actual use.

Dr. Charles Blend, head of the department, spent his summer in Paris doing research on contemporary French literary criticism, and many of his faculty members have also been studying and traveling abroad.

CLASSICAL CIVILIZATION

The Mythology course offered by this department is a favorite among freshmen as the size of classes well indicates. In more advanced courses, however, Dr. Francis Laine and Miss Margaret Meriweather continue to provide much individual attention for the student of Greek and Latin. A B.A. degree may be earned by majors in either of these fields.

SOCIOLOGY

Heading the Department of Sociology and Anthropology is Dr. Lyda Gordon Shivers who holds a law degree in addition to her doctorate in Sociology. This department and its faculty is varied in its courses and interests, and nearly everyone who comes to UNC-G finds some semester hours to fit in one or more of its classes. The Sociology majors, many of whom go on to graduate schools, find enthusiasm for their chosen careers through the Senior Social Work class taught by Dean Merib Mossman and the practical experience of working in a social agency or welfare department capacity as part of this class.

GEOGRAPHY

Dr. Craig Dozier, Head of the Geography Department, was on leave during first semester studying New Lands Development in South America under a Social Science Research Grant. While Dr. Dozier was away, Mr. Bob Schul served as acting head of the department. New courses in the Geography Department this year are Climatology and Urban Geography. The latter is taught by Charles Hayes, director of the Greensboro City Planning Department.

Dr. Craig Dozier, Head of the Geography Department.

HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

History and Political Science, under the leadership of Dr. Richard Bardolph, continues to add to its reputation as one of the University's strongest departments. Its graduates have distinguished themselves in teaching, public service, and graduate school. Many have gone on to work on the doctorate as University Fellows, National Defense Education Act Fellows, Woodrow Wilson Fellows and Fulbright Scholars.

The Department's professors possess a high reputation for rigorous standards and excellence in teaching, and for increased scholarly productivity as authors of books, monographs, and articles for professional periodicals. Greatly enriched University Library resources have enabled faculty and students to emphasize creative study in original sources and have contributed heavily to the Master of Arts Program, now in its third year.

PHILOSOPHY

Dr. Robert B. Rosthal, Head of Philosophy Department

With the introduction of the Philosophy major three years ago and the alternate requirement two years ago, enrollment in the department has skyrocketed. This year alone it has increased 27%, with approximately 270 students each semester. Dr. Robert Rosthal, heading the department, has returned from a year of leave as a fellow in the Ford Foundation Cooperative Program in Humanities. He is assisted by Dr. Curtis Booth, visiting lecturer from Bradley University, and hopes next year to increase his faculty to three with the return of Dr. Warren Ashby from India.

Dr. Kenneth Howe, Dean of School of Education.

EDUCATION

Dr. Howe heads one of the largest schools in the University, the School of Education, which offers degrees in elementary and secondary education to prospective teachers. At Curry School, the education majors' lab, students obtain valuable experience through on-the-spot training. The Education Department has introduced in the elementary grades, on the experimental level, a block program of student teaching in which students go to class at the beginning of the year, teach for five weeks, and then return to class to share their experiences in the field. Dean Howe and his associates hope to extend the block program to all areas of education next year.

Elementary students at Curry School are in many classes of students doing their student teaching.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Elementary Education is a popular major here on the UNC-G campus. The staff of the Elementary Education Department is proud of this fact. Those wanting to major in Elementary Education begin in their junior year to take courses which will enable them to teach the younger children how to read, write, and sing. Much time is spent in Curry and other Greensboro elementary schools observing this age group. It is felt that if the prospective teachers see the action of the classroom often, they will be able to handle almost any situation which might arise during their own teaching. The culmination of this two year study is practiced—for each elementary education major there comes a day when she must take over a class in her student teaching experience.

Education majors discuss visual aids with Dr. Colbert.

SECONDARY EDUCATION

The Secondary Education major has a somewhat different curriculum than the Elementary Education major. These students spend more time in their chosen fields such as History, English, and Home Economics than they do taking education courses. It is felt that by doing this, these students will be able to take a sufficient knowledge of their subject area into the classroom. Although more time is spent in the individual's subject field, these students take a number of education courses, methods and adolescent psychology heading the list. The final experience for these majors as for the elementary majors is the student teaching experience.

The Education Department sponsors two extra-curricular organizations here on the University campus. Elementary Education majors have their own organization, Association of Childhood Education. Both Elementary and Secondary Education majors take advantage of the opportunity to belong to Students National Education Association which is affiliated with the National Education Association. The UNC-G chapter of SNEA has been fortunate this year to have among its members the president of the North Carolina branch of SNEA, Becky Kasuboski.

BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

All classes in the Business and Economics Department take place in Forney. The Business Department offers a degree in secretarial administration and business administration. These degrees lead to careers in teaching, merchandising, store servicing and office work. The Economics Department instructs students who are interested in learning the principles of economic theory and their application. The Business Department sponsors Gamma Alpha, an honorary organization for senior and junior business majors. Meetings are held once a month in which the majors have an opportunity to listen to guest speakers from the business world giving the students first hand information about the problems of the business world.

COMMERCIAL

Dr. Roscoe Allen, Head Commercial Department

One of the oldest departments on campus, the Commercial Department holds a reputation for producing outstanding secretaries and accountants. On completion of the one-year professional program, which includes courses in typewriting, shorthand, English, accounting and office machines, the student is eligible for a Commercial Certificate. Commercial students spend many hours a day in Forney, under the instruction of Dr. Roscoe Allen and his faculty, perfecting their skills and preparing to meet the challenges of the business world.

HOME ECONOMICS

The School of Home Economics offers the student both undergraduate and graduate courses. The undergraduate course emphasizes skills among which are sewing, cooking, child development, and family relations. The student in Home Economics also must take subjects in the liberal arts. The specialized curricula in the Home Economics Department for the undergraduate may lead to many interesting careers such as food demonstration work, hospital dietetics, or interior designing. The Greensboro branch of the Consolidated University is the center of the Home Economics Graduate School in North Carolina. The graduate student may take up courses in a variety of fields which upon receiving his degree will qualify him for public school and college teaching, as well as research and administrative work in business and industry, public service, and private institutional settings.

HEALTH

Miss Alice Schriver is professor of Health and head of the Health Department here at the University. The Health and Physical Education Departments are actually aimed at giving the student an idea of the effect that bad health habits have on the society at large, while the Physical Education Department offers courses aimed at building up the body to peak health conditions. Elementary Education majors are required to take a course in elementary school health, and all students who are seeking teacher certification must take Health 101. Many students take the first aid course which is offered under the auspices of this Department knowing that someday such a course might be the difference between life and death for someone.

Dr. Alice Schriver, Head of Health Department.

First Aid students apply what they have learned to everyday life.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Aside from the required freshman and sophomore physical education courses, this department is brimming over with activities for everyone in our college community. The only prerequisites are that one is interested, willing to give a few hours, and anxious to feel better physically, maybe even mentally. Modern Dance, Dolphin-Seal, and the Recreation Association are only some of the groups evolving from our Physical Education Department.

Ethel Martus, an energetic and active person, is the head of this department. Rarely is she in her office, for most of her time is taken up with classes and her favorite sports. Our Physical Education Department has numerous professionals in their particular fields, and the enthusiasm they generate for their sport is extensive. No wonder the Physical Education Department of UNC-G is outstanding.

One of the favorite sports on campus is golfing. Our well kept golf course is frequently crowded with golfers—some quite good. In addition, many faculty members as well as students' friends are seen making the rounds daily. Fencing, a fast invigorating game, is great for keeping the body in good shape and coordinating mind and activity.

CHEMISTRY

The chemistry Department at UNC-G, headed by Dr. Walter Puterbaugh, has recently revised its curriculum to bring it into line with American Chemical Society recommendations. The Chemistry Department offers two scholarships—the Faculty Service Club Scholarship, held this year by Elizabeth Hankins, and the Carrie Biggs Scholarship, held this year by Diane Robinson. The Chemistry Department has acquired new equipment under a National Science Foundation Grant.

MATH

In 1964, Dr. Posey came to U.N.C.-G. and assumed the position of head of the Math Department. His orders were to increase and to strengthen the courses and faculty, and to strive toward available graduate work and degrees in math.

Unknowns may be discovered in the math department. Did you know that astronomy is included in the curriculum? And have you heard about the German, Dr. Bernard Schmidt who teaches math? No, he does not teach in German, but to some students it sure seems like anything but English! But all is not hard work in the Math Department, for there is an active club, the Square Circle, which many of our math majors find enjoyable.

Dr. Eldon Posey, Head of the Math Department.

Miss Carroll discusses a problem with math students after class.

PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

With the beginning of this school year came a new head of the Physics Department, Dr. Clark. This energetic man came from Southern Methodist University with the hopes of expanding and improving the UNC-G Physics Department. His orders were to build it up to include a recognized graduate school, and he seems to be giving it everything he can. There have always been some girls here enthusiastically interested in our physics program, but with the advent of co-educational status and immigration of males, it is inevitable that the interest for a strong, solid offering of courses will continue growing.

BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Undergraduate research has become an integral part of the Biology Department at UNC-G. To competent students, the present program may include a series of steps leading eventually to an independent research project in the senior year. Dr. Bruce Eberhardt, department head, is currently doing research under a National Science Foundation Grant in fungi genetics. Other faculty members are also involved in studies in their specialties or related interests.

PSYCHOLOGY

The Psychology Department at the University is headed by Dr. Kendon Smith. This department offers a variety of courses which aim at helping the student discover the facts and principles of human behavior. One of the most popular courses is that of Abnormal Psychology. All students of psychology realize that the field is open to much discovery and research because the subject matter of the course covers all of the facets of human behavior—which is a broad field indeed.

NURSING

The Department of Nursing Education offers a two-year program leading to an associate degree in applied science in nursing which qualifies its graduates to become registered nurses. Experience at Moses H. Cone Memorial Hospital and John Umstead Hospital aid the student in acquiring knowledge, understanding, and skills which will enable her in this patient-centered service to provide sustained comfort through the maintenance and restoration of normal physiological, mental, and emotional health. Nursing students are also encouraged to recognize and solve problems, become self-directing and develop their own standards and values. Nursing Education will become a four year program at UNC-G in 1967.

FINE ARTS

The addition of a new fine arts building to our campus acclaims the fact that the University's Art Department has outgrown its bounds in many ways. Offering a vast array of course to prospective majors and interested persons, the Art Department qualifies many students for outstanding as well as fascinating occupations. A definite need for instructors in art education also has led to great expansion in this department. The Weatherspoon Gallery affords students an opportunity to exhibit their work as well as others to observe several shows throughout the year.

MUSIC

The Music Department is a rapidly expanding department offering a curricula which leads to degrees ranging from that of a Bachelor of Music to a Master of Fine Arts in Theory-Composition. The School of Music is a member of the National Association of Schools of Music. The requirements for entrance and graduation are in accordance with the published regulations of the National Association of Schools of Music. At the present time Dr. Herbert Fred is acting head of the department. Both the music majors and the music faculty look forward to the completion of the new Fine Arts Building which will provide more classroom space.

DRAMA AND SPEECH

The head of the Drama Department, Herman Middleton, teaches and directs plays. This year he is directing Lil Abner which he will produce on campus as well as taking the players overseas to present the play to United States Military Installations abroad. The center of activity for the Drama Department is Aycock Auditorium. Here the Drama majors and those outside of the major who are interested in theatrical production spend many hours working on productions. The theatrical organization on campus is Masqueraders, an organization in which the members, in order to qualify, must spend a considerable part of their time working for the theatre and its continued growth and high recognition. With the completion of the construction of the new Fine Arts Building, the Drama Department will finally have room to house all of its facilities in one building.

COMMUNICATIONS

TV AND RADIO

WUNC-TV is the University's educational non-commercial television station. Although there is no curriculum here in the working of a TV station, students in Drama use facilities for laboratory work. The Campus radio station, WUAC provides FM music for the campus while student disc-jockeys gain invaluable experience.

PINE NEEDLES

In an effort to present an accurate and inclusive portrait of life at UNC-G which will preserve lasting memories of the years spent here, members of the 1965-1966 Pine Needles staff diligently work, trying to combine ingenuity, originality, and imagination. The staff spends countless hours and encounters numerous frustrations with problems which are created by deadlines. Yet, the perseverance of each staff member and their untold dedication result in this—the 1965-66 Pine Needles.

This year the staff, headed by Editor, Marjorie MacFarland, is expanding the paper beyond local UNC-G issues to news from other campuses and world-wide topics. One of the many topics focused upon is the controversial Speaker Ban. With more coverage expansion, six-page issues appeared frequently, and readers looked forward to Cary's opinions each week.

Interfaith Council, under the direction of Dean Katherine Taylor, serves to coordinate the activities of the various religious organizations on campus by publicizing the opportunities available through these groups. A subsidiary organization of Interfaith Council is CREAL—meaning “Campus Religious Education with Applications to Life”—which sponsors and coordinates Thursday night vespers within the dorm unit.

Each year at Christmas Interfaith Council brings to campus the Moravian Love Feast, an impressive service of candles and caroling. This beautiful celebration gives to all who attend a deeper and fuller sense of the meaning of Christmas.

GOVERNING

BODIES

The Student Government Association of UNC-G is an organization belonging to every student and maintained by active student interest and participation in its affairs.

The five officers which carry out the duties involved in Student Government, Nancy Baker, president of S.G.A.; Betty Hobgood, vice president of S.G.A.; Monette Weaver, secretary of S.G.A.; and Sherry Rudisell, S.G.A. cheerleader, are always ready for new ideas and suggestions from the students. Pre-school conference, which is sponsored by S.G.A., is held in September for the purpose of planning the coming year's activities.

COURT SYSTEM

Within our Judicial system the Honor Court represents a group of girls whose main concern is to achieve student awareness of the significance of the honor policy and to help each student realize his responsibility and what it means to him here at UNC-G and throughout life.

The Court of Social Regulations combines concern, understanding, and respect for the individual student as it considers major social offenses on the campus. It is the SGA judicial body entrusted with the standards of UNC-G social life.

AD HOC AND STANDING COMMITTEES OF SGA

A vital part of campus life at UNC-G is legislature, an organization composed of one representative for every fifty students. To aid in its work, legislature forms various Ad Hoc committees which serve as a source of ideas, a place to discuss these ideas, and means of carrying out proposals.

In addition to the Ad Hoc committees, certain standing committees with appointed members carry out legislature duties. These committees are: Elections Board, Classification of Offices, Legislation, Faculty-Student Reviewing, Districting, Constitution, By-Laws and Regulations, and Social Concerns. The Standing executive committees are: Finance Board, Health Liaison, Residence Hall Liaison, Handbook Evaluation, and Traffic. These committees keep SGA a well functioning organization.

Members are chosen by their amount of interest, promise, and ideas. With the help of their co-ordinator, Kathy Topodas, and three sophomore advisors, the freshmen learn about SGA and relate the information to their dorms. ## TOWN STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

The Town Students' Association was established to integrate off campus students with the student government and other aspects of college life. These fortunate students can pursue higher education while enjoying all the comforts of home. Slight inconveniences, however, do accompany them. Elliott Hall is their home away from home offering comfortable lounges to the town student between classes.

POLITICAL CLUBS

YDC

The Young Democrats at UNC-G, headed by president, Martha Byrd Gainey, is here to interest the campus in national, state, and local government affairs and to encourage voters to take active interest in politics. A visit to the campus by Lieutenant Governor Robert Scott ignited much enthusiasm and later on, the YDC participated in a bi-partisan national lecture—in support of the U. S. policy in Vietnam.

YRC

UNC-G's Young Republicans strive to educate themselves in the principles of the Republican Party. The club also provides an opportunity for political expression. Its efforts are directed toward stimulating Republican Party activity on the campus.

NATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

The National Students Association is a nationwide students' organization designed to establish and maintain democratic student governments, high educational standards, academic freedom, and responsibility. The past year at UNC-G, the NSA program expanded greatly and took part in many more aspects of our college life. Projects undertaken by the NSA included student discount services, used book sales, Student Government Information Services, and a International Student Relations Seminar. As a part of SGA the NSA is directed toward the student as an individual and is primarily concerned with the expression of opinions by students on a national level.

Terry Ashe, Co-ordinator of NSA

A chosen panel discusses the Dominican crisis.

SENIOR HOUSE PRESIDENTS AND COUNSELORS

This position is for the student who wants to devote some of his college life to the organization and smooth management of our community. In turn there is a great deal to be received by each of these house presidents through working closely with the students and serving as the official hostesses in their dorms.

Working with house counselors is another of their activities. They must relay their ideas to the students in their dorms as well as serving as a liason between them and the administration, student government, and general campus activities.

JUNIOR HOUSE PRESIDENTS AND COUNSELORS

A sense of management, a tad of authority, and a warm and outgoing personality characterize the JHP's on our campus. They have a whole household of freshmen to guide through a rough first year of college, and they want them all returning for sophomore year. Along with the assistant JHP's, they are the official hostesses for their dorms. Coordination is one of their big tasks, for it involves working with the house mother, campus leaders, courts, administration, the general campus, and linking these to her own girls.

Rosalyn Fleming, Co-ordinator of Service League.

SERVICE LEAGUE

This year Service League has undertaken many projects which have brought the University into closer contact with the community. The "Milk for Bali" program was continued this year. A Halloween carnival was sponsored which was attended by many students. The Red Cross Blood Mobile was at UNC-G in November. "Operation Merry Christmas" was initiated providing gifts for soldiers in Viet Nam. Service League also continued its annual Christmas project for Greensboro needy families in which dorms participate.

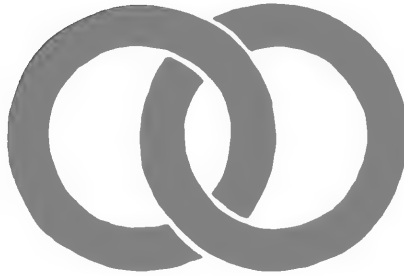

The Halloween Carnival is a major fund-raising activity of Service League

Rosalyn Fleming, head of Service League and Janet Koontz, a dorm chairman, prepare Christmas gifts for a needy family.

Epsilon Chapter of North Carolina

A section of the chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the University of North Carolina was established at the Woman's College Section in 1935. In 1965 the Woman's College Section was granted a separate charter and became the Epsilon Chapter of North Carolina. Elections to membership in the Society are held each spring. Senior candidates for A. B. degree who have high academic standing are eligible for election. Juniors with exceptionally high averages are also eligible.

NOTES FROM THE EDITOR . . .

Our foremost thought while compiling and editing the 1965-1966 Pine Needles has been that of the student. We have endeavored to give the student a picture of his life here at the University that he will always cherish. Our selection of Discovery as our theme was done early in the Spring of 1965. We felt that this one word exemplified all of the experiences, good and bad, that the student encounters here at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. If you have carefully surveyed the first 80 pages of the book, we hope you have been able to see yourself in many of the pictures.

We have made several changes in the format of the yearbook this year. First, we have enlarged the Student Life Section from approximately 24 pages in 1964-1965 to 80 pages in this book. Secondly, we have not pictured the faculty in formal portraits which has been the custom in years past, but we have tried to show the faculty as an integral part of what occurs here at the University in many candid and classroom shots. Thirdly, we have pictured the heads of each department because we feel that most of the different majors in various subjects are most familiar with the department head. And finally we have changed the Senior Class Section by putting more pictures on the page. By doing this we were able to have more pages free for candid shots in the Student Life Section. We hope that these changes have enabled you to get a clearer picture of the student and his life here at the University.

I would like to thank personally all of you who have given me the chance to be Editor of your yearbook. My primary reason for coming to college was to gain an education. Certainly if I had not had the opportunity to edit this book I would have gained in some way my goal, but because I did have this opportunity, I will always be grateful for the experience it has given me in learning about people—this you can gain from no book or no lecture, but only through experience.

Without the dedication and effort of many people the publication of this book would not have been possible. My special appreciation and thanks goes out to the following persons and companies:

Ann Malloy—who spent many hours in her capacity of Associate Editor doing all those things which no one else would do.

Steve Olosevich—who spent many hours working in several capacities with a wonderful attitude and with devotion to the cause.

Barbara Sutton—who kept the financial matters in good running condition.

Pete Cook—who, by her special feeling about life here at the University, was able to put together a Student Life Section in which every student should recognize himself.

Evelyn Brake—who did not know exactly what she was getting into when she accepted the academics section, but she stuck it out until the final page was finished.

Brenda Burge—who willingly did what she was told, always with a smile, and successfully completed her pages.

Sally Privott and Julie Dyson—fast fingered typists who were always willing to do their part, sometimes over and above the call of duty.

Elizabeth Helsing—our student photographer who had many hard knocks, but who was always willing to try once more.

Emily Chiemiego—my roommate, who officially acted in the capacity of photography editor, but who by listening faithfully to my problems and frustrations did much to help when the going got rough.

Kathy Crawley—who helped us in time of need with her artistic talents.

My thanks is also extended to the administration and faculty members who offered much information and help, and especially to Mr. Wilkinson and the News Bureau staff who offered many pictures of the right subject at the right time.

In the actual production of the book several firms and their representatives offered invaluable assistance, these are as follows:

Mr. Ralph Van Dyke and Mr. Gary Zook and the people of the American Yearbook Company; Mr. Fay Smith and his photographers, Mr. Harrison Scott and Mr. Richard Byrd; Mr. Carrol Martin and Mr. Malcolm Miller from Martin Studio; Mr. Peter Julian, a freelance photographer who seemed to understand the exact mood and feeling we wanted for Student Life pictures, and Mr. Les Seavers.

Finally, I would like to add that no yearbook can be done by one person, there must be others who are willing to offer their time and assistance. The 1966 yearbook is the end result of the patient efforts of a few students for the enjoyment of many.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF A BELOVED TEACHER . . .

Randall Jarrell said to one of his poetry classes that, "The thought of being a fountain is so intriguing in comparison to the prospect of being a water faucet." Jarrell was just such a teacher; he chose an infectious dalliance with joy that was not confined to any subject, but brought every subject into the fabric of his own vitality, making of everything poetry.
